After a keynote of SAFRI's new Chairman, Professor Heinz-Walter Große, CEO of B. Braun Melsungen AG, senior experts from the African Development Bank and the OECD Development Centre will present the African Economic Outlook 2015. The report presents the current state of economic and social development in Africa and projects the outlook for the coming two years. It provides comprehensive and comparable data and analyses for all 54 African countries. The edition comprises three parts. Part one assesses Africa's macroeconomic performance and prospects, financial flows and tax revenues, human development, as well as trade policies and regional integration. Part two focuses on this year's specific theme: How to better tap African regions' diversity and unlock their potential by regional approaches to development – multi-sectoral and place-based. Part three consists of comparable notes on each individual African country.

After the presentation and discussion we invite you to a networking lunch. Please refer to the following programme for further details. The report will be presented in English.
